Keeping Families Together When it Counts

When you or someone you love is seriously ill, what you want most is to be together. Nunnally House at Southeast Georgia Health System helps make that desire a reality. Our stress-free lodging facility offers a home away from home for patients who have cancer or family members of critical care patients.

“Many of our guests have told us that, without Nunnally House, they would not have been able to receive their cancer treatments.”

Eliminating Distance Barriers

When someone has cancer, living far away from the best possible treatment can be an insurmountable barrier. Nunnally House helps eliminate that barrier by enabling cancer patients and their family members to stay during treatment periods, which may be one night or up to several weeks.

A Beautiful, Home-like Atmosphere

Nunnally House, located adjacent to the Health System's Brunswick Campus, offers rooms for cancer patients, families of critical care patients, medical students and on-call staff. The atmosphere is inviting and warm, with a fireplace-lit gathering space within a relaxing common area.

Amenities include queen beds, cable TV, telephone and kitchenettes with refrigerator and microwave. Bathrooms feature tubs or showers, with fully handicap-accessible also available. Along with two laundry rooms with washers, dryers, irons and ironing boards for personal use, housekeeping provides daily cleaning along with all linens, pillows, towels and washcloths.

A Gift of Extraordinary Kindness

Construction of Nunnally House, along with all of its furnishings, is just one more remarkable gift bestowed upon the Health System by Mr. Hugh Nunnally and his family. Inspired by the facility's purpose and design, Mr. and Mrs. Mike and Lucia Gumaer, avid gardeners and Friends of the Foundation, generously offered to enhance the exterior landscaping. Patients and their families will experience the extraordinary kindness of these donors for generations to come, and for that, we could not be more grateful.

“Out of town family members of critical care patients no longer need to stay in a hotel . . . Nunnally House allows them to be just a few steps away from their loved one.”
